Honesty

Words & Music by: Robin Stevens

Why do you turn your back on me?
Why must you run away and hide?
Why can't you be real with me?
O won't you believe that I love you?

When will you stop your playing games?
When will you look me in the eye?
When will you make space and time
Still the chaos of your mind, so I can reach you?

Take a break to get in touch with the emptiness inside
Think what you're missing as you
Hold onto your pride
There's a life of freedom, but the
Price you have to pay
Is to walk in honesty, it's the only way
It's the only way!

Surely you won't keep up this pretence?
Surely you know the pain of loneliness?
Surely you know I'm hurting all the while
Your stone-faced, bitter smile keeps me from you

Why do you turn...?

Come down from your pedestal
And say what you feel
Be known in your weakness, walk in honesty...

Honesty
