You make me feel Worthwhile

Words & Music by: Robin Stevens

When you greet me with a wave or a smile
Sit beside me, ask me, “How do you feel?”
And the look in your eyes says you really want to know
You make life worth living, you make me feel worthwhile

When you listen as you hold me by the hand
Show compassion, really try to understand
Then the knowledge you care is comfort to my soul...

When I’m weary and the only colour’s grey
You don’t leave me, though it’s hard for you to stay
And your presence assures me I matter after all...

When I’m troubled no slick answers are supplied
But you’re with me till the knot inside unties
For the gift of your love is healing to my mind
You make life worth living, you make me feel worthwhile
